Historical Background

Iranian cinema has a rich history dating back to the early 20th century, but it was not until the 1960s and 1970s that the industry began to flourish with a focus on commercial success. However, the Islamic Revolution of 1979 marked a turning point, leading to strict censorship and a period of stagnation. Amid these constraints, a new generation of filmmakers emerged in the 1980s and 1990s who sought to push boundaries and address social realities more candidly.

Emergence of the New Wave

The late 1980s and early 1990s saw the rise of what is now termed "film irani jadid," characterized by a focus on realism, personal storytelling, and social critique. Influenced by global cinema trends such as Italian neorealism and French New Wave, Iranian directors began to craft films that prioritized authentic portrayals of everyday life, often working with limited budgets and resources.
